POOR FORK, Dec. 15.—All are busy with parts for Christmas exercises. Mrs. F. B. Whitcomb is helping train the young folks. Last night several met with her to learn songs.

Christmas tree exercises will be held Sunday night, December 16.

"DO YOUR MAILING EARLY" URGENT PLEA OF P. O. DEPARTMENT

Christmas packages not mailed this week may fail to reach their destination in time, according to Postmaster Chas. E. Cooke. Mailing of packages is already heavy and it is expected that by next week a state of congestion will exist.

Thursday two wagon loads of packages were received at the postoffice. Although an extra clerk and a carrier will be added to the postal force next week, the public can render valuable aid in the handling of mail by proper co operation.

Postmaster General Hubert Work has issued instructions for mailing packages which, in brief, are: Wrap with tough paper, tie with stout cord and see that return address is in the upper left-hand corner. The "Do not open until Christmas" instructions may be marked on the outside of the packages.

While little confusion or delay has resulted at the postoffice this year as if result of a failure to carry out these instructions, there have been some cases where persons sending packages did not thoroughly comply with the instructions. The most notable cases of this kind were where the address of the person to whom the package was being sent appeared in the upper left hand corner where the sender's address should have been and the sender's address where the receiver's should have been.

TIE UP IN FREIGHT TRANSPORTATION

Embargo at Louisville and Cincinnati Terminals Threatens Coal Business.

Both the Cincinnati and Louisville terminals of the L. and N. railroad have been so loaded up with business this week that the cannot take loads from the division except in small quantities. While not officially classed as such, this condition is equivalent to an embargo on the loadings of this division.

The yards at Louisville and Cincinnati are full of cars, many are sidetracked between Corbin and these two places, and there were 1100 cars in Corbin this morning, not half of which can be moved. This condition is reacting on the mines and unless conditions are immediately bettered, transportation from the mines of this section will be completely tied up. On the Cincinnati division now one freight train is running every five hours, an average of about five a day, where, normally, the freight trains run every thirty minutes.

O. B. Hollingsworth, division superintendent, deploring conditions, said this morning that the L. and N. is in better shape to handle business now than it has been in years. By buying forty new engines this year on contract th company's locomotive works at Louisville have been used entirely for repair work, to the end that the cars and engines have been put in excellent condition.

BILL TO FINANCE PRODUCE SALES

Measure to Establish $100,000,000 Aid Corporation Favorably Reported.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Bill of Senator Morriss, Republican, Nebraska, to establish a hundred million government corporation to finance sales of agricultural products was ordered reported favorable today by the Senate Agricultural Committee.

Prof. R. H. Shipp will leave tomorrow for Frankfort to attend the convention of County School Superintendents, in session there.

E. F. Heil and J. E. Beach of the Kentucky Rock Asphalt Co., Louisville, Ky. will arrive the first of the week to spend the holidays with home folks.

START GRADING ON NEW DOUBLE TRACK LINE OF L. & N.

Steam Shovels With Crews of 25 at Work—Right of Way Trouble Almost Eliminated—Expect to Finish Track in 1923.

IMPROVEMENT WILL DOUBLE HAUL FROM COAL FILEDS HERE

A steam shovel started last week at Wallsend, working toward Fourmile grading on the new L. and N. double tracking between Wallsend and Bailey's Switch. Another shovel will start at Elys Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. About twenty-five men are attached to each shovel, this including train crew, loaders and foremen.

Work on the double track has been held up some because of trouble in securing right of way between Artemus and Himyar. However, J. H. Parker, division engineer in charge, recently stated that the right of way matter was now pretty well adjusted and he felt sure the contract would be completed by the first of the year.

O. B. Hollingsworth, division superintendent, said today that he expected the work on the double track to progress rapidly unless some unprecedented trouble in the matter of weather or letting contracts developed. The work, he says, is not heavy although there is some difficulty in places where the new track conflicts with the old road. He said that Mr. Parker had informed him that he felt certain that the track would be completed during 1923.

The double track will enable the present engine equipment of the L. and N. to double its haul from Bell, Harlan and Virginia coal fields. The improvement, it is estimated, will cost between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

A similar improvement has been started on the Eastern Kentucky branch of the L. and N. serving the Hazard-Elkhorn fields.

The L. and N. will soon start a station building at Blackmont, mouth of Puckett's Creek and the junction between the L. and N. and the Black Mountain Railroad. This station will be about 1,000 feet above the present station of Felder.

ZEKE MILLER HELD FOR ATTEMPTED CRIMINAL ASSAULT

Zeke Miller was bound over to the grand jury yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Chas. G. Smyth on a charge of attempted crimnal assault. His bond was fixed by the magistrate at $1,000 and has not been made and he is still held at the city jail. His case will come before the Bell county grand jury at their March 12.

It is said that his attempted assault on Mary Montgomery, 13-year-old daughter of J. W. Montgomery of East End, was frustrated by the presence of mind of the child who told the alleged assailant that he brother was in the house and would kill him unless he left immediately.

PRELIMINARY HEARING FOR THOMAS BARNETT TOMORROW

Preliminary hearing in the case of Thomas Barnett who is held in connection with the death of Jess Ball, miner who was shot from ambush Tuesday, will take place before County Judge Bingham in the circuit court room of the city hall at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Several witnesses have been summoned and the general opinion prevails that Barnett will be released as soon as the formality of the trial is over.

Martin Green, sheriff of Bell county, and his chief deputy, Bob Vanbebber, began working on the murder mystery yesterday. Nothing definite has been learned which will lead to the identity of the slayer, according to Chief Ball who has visited the scene of the crime three times, and has made a thorough investigation in the neighborhood. The chief is hopeful, however, that the continued efforts of the officers will be rewarded by the capture of the guilty man.

HARKNESS GREAT-GRANDCHILD ANNOUNCED BY CABLE TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Harkness, Dorchester avenue, received a cablegram this morning from northern South Africa announcing the birth of a great-grandchild, James Sherwood Harkness.

James Sherwood Harkness is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Harkness who went from the Methodist church in South Dakota three years ago as missionaries to Africa. This is the second great-grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Harkness.

NEGRO IS SHOT BY FLOYD BALL

Quarrel Over Watch Pawned at Ball Shop Causes Shooting—Negro In Hospital.

Floyd Ball shot and seriously wounded S. L. Madderson, colored, in an argument over a watch at Ball's pawn shop on Lothbary avenue at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Ball was arrested and later released on a $1500 bond. The wounded man went to the Brosheer-Brummett hospital where an X-ray was made of the wound. One bullet had entered his left hip and had lodged in the bone. Dr. Brosheer says that unless complications set up, the negro should soon recover.

According to Madderson's statement, he pawned a valuable watch at Ball's shop several months ago for nine dollars. Later he sent the money for the watch from Lynch where he was working, also thirteen dollars interest charges. Ball failed to send him the watch, he stated.

He came to town yesterday and went to the shop two or three times and inquired for Ball but was told that he was out. Also he went to the office of Magistrate Smyth with the intention of invoking his aid in the recovery of his property, but the magistrate likewise was out.

In the afternoon he went to Floyd Ball's shop which is located at the rear of a barber shop near the Wabash Hotel and demanded the watch. Ball told him, he stated, that he had sent the watch to Yellow Creek. The argument became heated, and Ball cursed him several times. He attempted to leave the shop, he says, and Ball barred his progress, and pulled a revolver from his pocket and began shooting. One shot found lodgement in the negro's hip, another crashed through a glass showcase and another struck the plastered wall over his head. The wounded man left by the rear of the shop.

There is some conflict in stories of the affair, however. According to Enos Jordan and John Pike, barbers who were in the shop when the shooting occurred, Madderson cursed Ball and put his hand threateningly to his hip pocket.

The negro says that he did not have a gun, did not put his hand to his pocket and did not use any abusive language. He says that he is a Christian man and does not use profanity or carry a gun. Dr. Brosheer stated that he did not have a gun when he came to the hospital.

Madderson is 29 years old, is married and has one child.

HARDMAN DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF RENAKER MURDER

Defendant Testifies He Knew Nothing of Dead Man's Property—Mrs. Renaker Not To Be Called To Witness Stand.

REESE FOX MAKES GENERAL DENIAL OF HIS COMPLICITY

By Associated Press

WINCHESTER, Dec. 15.—It was announced today at the opening of the trial of Scobee Hardman, charged with the murder of Leon Renaker, that Mrs. Renaker would not be called as a witness at Hardman's trial. Hardman, who finished his testimony last night, entering a general denial of any knowledge of how Renaker was slain, was recalled to the stand at the opening of court today. He denied that he knew anything about the amount of Renaker's property. He said he had been in the Renaker home twice before the killing. Reese Fox, indicted with Hardman, testified he is 22 years old, a schoolmate of Harman. He denied that he was with Hardman in an automobile July 24 or 25. He detailed his movements about the time the murder was committed.

HARVEY GOES HOME FOR CONSULTATION

Ambassador to England Sails Dec. 23—No Announcement of Question To Be Discussed.

By Associated Press

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Ambassador Harvey has been called home for a consultation, it was stated at the American embassy this afternoon. He will sail December 23. He is not accompanied by Mrs. Harvey.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Although State department officials confirmed today the London announcement that Ambassador Harvey had been called home "for consultation," they declined to make any explanation of the specific questions Secretary Hughes desired to discuss with him, but it is supposed they are connected with the German reparations which are threatening a rupture between Great Britain and France.

P. T. A. MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

Prize Pictures Being Offered Rooms With Most Parents Present—Good Program Planned.

The Parent-Teachers' Association will hold its regular December meeting at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening in the public school auditorium. About 150 persons attended the last meeting of this organization and plans are on foot to make the meeting Monday night the biggest one ever held.

An interesting program has been planned by the committee, of which Mrs. Bruce More is chairman. Supt. J. W. Bradner will make a talk and the third grade rooms of Miss Sallie Kelley and Miss Myrtle Dalton have arranged a program to consist of Christmas carols, drills, a violin solo and recitations.

Members of the Parent-Teachers' Association are offering to the school room that gets the largest number of new members for the organization before Monday a picture, "Washington Crossing the Delaware" by Leutze.

There will also be a prize offered for the room having the largest numbers of parents present at Monday night's meeting. This prize will be "Can't You Talk?" by Holmes, which represents a child talking to a large dog. This picture will be passed from one room to another, the room having the most parents at the meetings keeping it for a month. This picture will be circulated in the first four grades. It is hand colored.

In the upper grades the picture, "The Angelus" by Millet will be given. All of these pictures are exceptionally fine and the replicas will be in good prints, framed artistically.

SIMMONS ROAD BILL UNCONSTITUTIONAL IS COURT DECISION

Judge Thomas of Court of Appeals Says Legislature Did Not Have Right to Name Commission Members.

BILL CALLED FOR REOGANIZATION KY. ROAD DEPARTMENT

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Dec. 15.—The Simmons Road department Reorganization Bill, passed by the last General Assembly, was declared unconstitutional today by the Court of Appeals. The higher court said the Legislature did not have authority to name members of the proposed highway commission, as that was an executive function. The opinion was written by Judge Thomas, all judges concurring except Judge oger Clay who dissented.

The Simmons Road Department Reorganization bill was passed by the 1922 General Assembly after a bitter political fight. Under the provisions of the act the present road department would be supplanted by a commission appointed by the Legislature, with General William L. Siebert of Bowling Green, as head of the body.

The disputed bill was introduced in the House by Representative Frank L. Strange, Democrat, Bowling Green, and in the Senate by Senator Robert C. Simmons, Democrat, Covington. The passage of the bill in the Senate came at the end of one of the longest filibusters ever attempted by a Kentucky Legislature, though it was claimed the Republican members were not only fighting the road bill but trying to kill several other measures which they claimed were politically repulsive.

Governor Morrow refused to receive the bill after it finally passed the Senate except as an "unauthenticated document," basing his rejection of it on the ground that it was "unconstitutional, not having the necessary twenty votes in the Senate to pass an appropriation measure," and also because it was "an attempt on the part of the legislature to delegate powers it could not confer, in naming a commission to hold over the duration of that General Assembly's life."

Judge Sam Hurst, Beattyville, acting in the absence of Judge Robert L. Stout, held the act unconstitutional on the ground that the Legislature could not appoint the members of the commission as this was an executive function. All other points brought against the act in the lower court were dismissed by Judge Hurst. Following the decision of the Franklin Circuit Court the case was appealed by Senator Simmons.

CONSPIRATORS GET SENTENCE REVERSED

Four Convicted in Clayhole Case Are Cleared By Court of Appeals.

By Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Dec. 15.—The prison sentences for Shade Combs, French Combs, Leslie Combs and George Allen, Jr., charged with conspiracy to prevent the election in Clayhole precinct, Breathitt county, and killing George McIntosh in furthering of the conspiracy, was reversed by the Court of Appeals today. Leslie Combs and Allen were sentenced to 15 years, French and Shade Combs to 5 years.

CORBIN GIRL SUSTAINS SERIOUS INJURIES FROM FALL

CORBIN, Dec. 14.—Miss Floy Siler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. S. Siler, was seriously injured in a fall from the balcony of Nevell's Sweet Shop to the concrete floor below, a distance of about 12 feet. Cranial injuries resulted when her head came in contact with the floor.

She was later removed to her father's hospital where, it was learned from recent reports, there are hopes for her recovery.

PROHIBITION AGENTS FIND BROTHERS IN MOUNTAIN CABIN

Officer Killed By Shots From Barricaded Cabin, Charles Ballard Wounded, Escapes to Nearby Woods.

REINFORCEMENTS OF AGENTS TAKE UP HUNT FOR SURVIVOR

By Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Dec. 15.—Prohibition Director Sam Collins received word that Bob Ballard, member of a gang of moonshiners sought for killing two officers last week in Menifee county, was killed and his brother, Charles Ballard, was wounded in a fight with twenty prohibition agents early today. Guy Cole, prohibition agent living at Bowling Green, was killed by the outlaws.

The two Ballards were trapped in a log cabin half a mile from the cabin where they shot and killed R. E. Duff, prohibition agent, last Saturday. The Ballards barricaded the structure. As the prohibition agents approached a shot rang out, and Cole, who was in the lead, fell dead across the threshold. An instant later the door opened and Cole's body was dragged inside. The possemen dropped to the ground and began working their way around the cabin, meanwhile answering volleys of rifle shots came from the barricaded men. Before the house was completely surrounded Charles Ballard dashed out from a door around the corner and sped away through the woods. It is believed he is wounded. The bodies of Bob Ballard and Agent Cole were found lying side by side on the cabin floor. Ballard was killed by a high powered rifle bullet that penetrated the cabin wall. Agent Roy Easley telephoned an account of the battle to Director Collins today from a store four miles from the scene of today's battle. Collins later sent reinforcements to take up the hunt for the surviving man.

BARBOURVILLE MAN NOW CHIEF JUSTICE

Resignation of Judge Rollin Hurt Makes Judge F. D. Sampson Head Appellate Court.

By Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Dec. 15.—With the retirement of Chief Justice Rollin Hurt from the Court of Appeal Friday the duties of chief justice will fall upon Judge Flem D. Sampson, of Barbourville. The Court of Appeals will adjourn for the Christmas vacation of two week today, and when it reconvenes Judge D. A. McCandless, Munfordville, will be sworn in as justice from the Third appellate district.

Judge McCandless, who was Circuit Judge, was elected in November by a majority of more than 9,000 votes over Lilburn Phelps, Republican, of Jamestown. Judge Hurt announced several months before the primary he would not be a candidate for reelection if there was any opposition in the district as he did not want to enter into an extensive campaign. After a short time Judge McCandless and Hobson L. James, Bardstown, entered the primary, Judge McCandless winning by a small majority.

Judge Sampson was born in London, Ky., January 23, 1875, the son of Joseph and Emoline Sampson. He served as county judge of Knox county from 1906 to 1908 and was elected Circuit Judge of the Thirty-fourth judicial district in November, 1911, and reelected in 1915. He resigned the judgship the same year to make the race for the appellate court and was elected by a large majority. Judge Sampson is a Mason, Odd Fellow, K. of P. and Elk. He married Miss Susie Steele in 1898.

Weather Forecast.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—For Kentucky, fair tonight and Saturday. Colder in Eastern portion; rising temperature Saturday.

A THOUGHT

Be not wise in thine own eyes; fear the Lord, and depart from evil. — Proverbs 3:7.

It is better to say, "This one thing I do," than to say, "These forty things I dabble in."—Washington Gladden.

COMMUNITY CHEST PLAN

Perhaps the system of giving to charities is more lax and more in need of revision than any other. The trouble obviously lies in a lack of organization.

The community chest plan which has been used with marked success in other cities, particularly the larger ones, and which has been unanimously endorsed by the ministers, business and professional men of Middlesboro, seems to offer a cure for all the ills of the present system of collecting for charity. To say the least, the system has been open to criticism and this attitude of some of the business and professional men of the city has doubtless had its effect on some of the multitudinous drives to which we have become prey.

The plan for the carrying out of the community chest program, as outlined by local citizens is briefly the organization of a central body which shall have complete authority in all matters pertaining to the raising of charity funds by popular subscription. The various organizations may then make out their budgets for the year or other period and such will receive the attention of the board.

The element of psychology perhaps enters more fully into the matter of giving than in any other. A mendicant may ask for alms and be rewarded. But if he comes around every day with his tale of woe, the otherwise cheerful giver will become disgusted at the repetitions of the request for help and refuse such, even though he knows that the cause is a worthy one.

It is simply an application of the old maxim that "familiarity breeds contempt."

The average man who will give one hundred dollars one time in the year will not give ten dollars at ten different times. He might give the second or third time, but after that his purse strings are harder to loosen.

The very fact that the plan is unanimously favored in the city is evidence that the charities will be supported more adequately and with less work and at a smaller expense than heretofore. Those who have spoken ardently in favor of the community chest, and they are some of our most prominent citizens, will surely aid in launching and carrying out the plan that they have advocated. Otherwise they would be disproving their argument by their own actions.

With the approach of the new year, it behooves the city, as well as individuals, to make resolutions. Let us put Middlesboro on record as being one of the cities who adopt the systematic means of collecting for its worthy poor.

TO TALK ABOUT

Today's most prophetic news comes from the electrical wizard, Steinmetz. He predicts that our descendants will have "canned sunlight."

Food and power will be the greatest problems of the future, says Steinmetz. He fears the day is coming when the earth will be so thickly populated that there will not be enough for all.

This is the old doctrine of Malthus. His opponents claim that plagues and wars keep weeding us out, to prevent over-population. A greater force, in preventing mouth to be fed from overtaking and passing available food supply is man's inventiveness. For instance, a scientist about three years ago perfected a hardier wheat that moved the bread belt 100 miles farther north.

And, predicts Steinmetz, future men will discover a way to bottle up sunshine, just as plants do. Then this imprisoned power will be transferred to grow food in barren districts, also to serve as fue lwhen the earth's coal supply becomes exhausted.

Future people may call up the store and order: "Send me two barrels of sunshine. The last batch had two much cloud in it."

Today's leading scientific news comes from Dr. Harlow Shapley, head astronomer at Harvard Observatory. He says it's doubtful if climatic conditions on Mars are able to support life.

But Venus, says Shapley, is a lot like the earth, in climate, so "life on Venus is highly probable."

Will a radio reach us from Venus before we get in touch with people on Mars, if any?

Henry Ford is too busy with problems here on earth to be much interested in theories about life on other planets. He will meditate Steinmetz's suggestion of storing the energy of sunlight and using it where and when needed. Probably Ford will wonder if the flivver some time will run on sunlight instead of gasoline.

Not to be outdone, Ford contributes this to today's news and food for thought: "A young man with no money, who wants to get married, should get married anyway. Men should marry early in life, regardless of their financial resources. I didn't have any money when I got married."

The senior Rockefeller wasn't much better off when he and his bride stood up before the preacher.

Of the three thoughts furnished by Steinmetz, Shapley and Ford, Ford's is the most important. Men succeed in proportion as they have something to work for. A wife and children spur man on, develop his earning powers. Marriage, to the right person, is any man's best investment.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
FRANKNESS
By Berton Braley

When anyone says, To Be Perfectly Frank—
As preface to further remark,
I know he's about to say things that are rank,
To which I must patiently hark,
He'll haul all my faults into pitiless light,
And strip the truth woefully nude,
For Frankness implies, if I read it aright,
"Get ready, I'm going to be rude!"

No one ever says, "To Be Perfectly Frank,
I think you are noble and smart."
Ah no, it's a sign they're preparing to yank
Your character roughly apart.
So when To Be Frank is the opening phrase,
I shudder, prepared to endure
Opinions of all my actions and ways
Which will not be pleasant, I'm sure.

We say we want frankness from all friends,
But when it comes down to a test,
We find that the comradeship frequently ends
Through frankness too frankly expressed;
For neither your character, brother, nor mine,
Of faults and of foibles is blank;
So let us forget them, we'll get along fine
By not being Perfectly Frank.

THANKSGIVING RALLY FOR STUDENTS AT PINE MT. SCHOOL

Pine Mountain, Dec. 14.—For several weeks Mr. Deschamps and the Boy Scouts had been putting up recruiting posters, and on Thanksgiving morning they set up two small tents on the play-ground, one for the Girl Scout headquarters and one for themselves. At dinner our curiosity was further aroused when the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout patrol leaders handed out ribbons, red for some patrols and yellow for the rest, with instructions to tie them on the right arm above the elbow at once.

Then the bell rang at two the whole school assembled on the play ground almost before Kitty Ritchie had a chance to blow assembly on the bugle. We opened the rally with the first verse of "America" and then Mr. Deschamps asked the Girl Scouts for their demonstration. Six of the girls led by Allie Callahan started out to the center of the play-ground, when a cry was heard from Fair Anna Harris who broke through the audience into their midst. "She's on fire!" shouted Allie, and with the aid of Pattie Ritchie threw her on the ground and proceeded to give directions of first aid to the other girls about her.

Mr. Deschamps then announced that Roy Redwine had been missing since morning and had last been seen going up the valley toward Aunt Sally's house. he Boy Scouts were to relay a message on foot up to Henry Creech's to see if anything had been seen of Roy from there. In about ten minutes the first runner returned with word that Roy had last been seen going through the woods toward the school. What happened to him after that we did not learn until later.

The two First Aid races which followed between pitched couples of Girl Scouts versus picked couples of Boy Scouts ended with victory for the first team of girls and the second team of boys. Just as these results were being announced a cry was heard from the woods back of us and Boone Callahan ran off to investigate. In a few minutes he returned with Roy Redwine, who, he said, had been bitten by a snake. Boone had put a tourniquet on his arm and proceeded to explain what to do for snake bites.

The game of the blind followed this demonstration and we laughed until we could laugh no more to see one blind-folded scout make frantic efforts to catch another blind folded and bewildered scout.

Finally Mr. Deschamps asked all of the yellow ribbons to get on one side and all of the red ribbons to get on the other, and about 50 boys and girls joined in the exciting game of "Flag Reading." Cheers and singing followed and then more games until it was time to go home for supper.

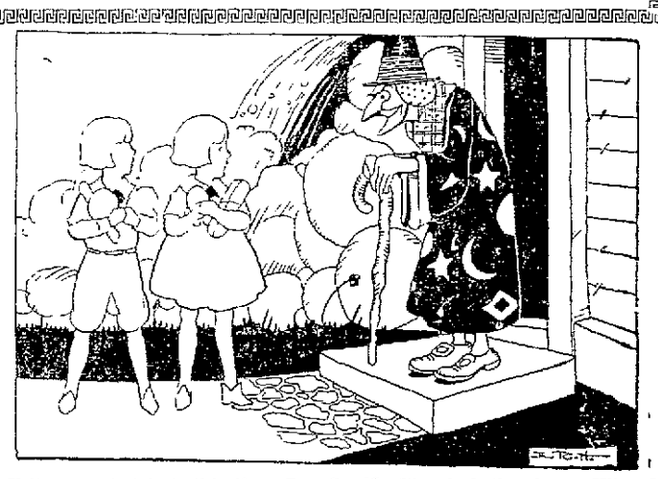
ORPHANS OF THE STORM

Adventures of The Twins
By Olive Roberts Barton



"Well now, what is it this time, Dr. Snuffles?" asked the Green Wizard.

A week after Dr. Snuffles paid his first visit to the Green Wizard, he came again.

"Ting-a-ling-a-ling," went the doorbell of the big pine tree where the Wizard lived.

Nancy answered it, as she had before, Dr. Snuffles climbed the steep stairs, the Green Wizard said how-do-you-do and Nick set a chair — all exactly as it had happened before.

"Well now, what is it this time, Dr. Snuffles?" asked the Green Wizard kindly. "What can I do for you? Didn't my magic medicine cure all your patients?"

"Yes, yes indeed!" said Dr. Snuffles. "It was wonderful! Mrs. Rabbit said her dyspepsia was completely gone. The only trouble was that now she had her appetite, the lettuce and green stuff were gone, too. The sass-patch garden is as brown as a potato. She will have to wait until spring for a good square meal."

"Did it cure anybody else?" asked the Wizard.

"Land yes! Old Mr. Mud Turtle is completely over his hay-fever, Philip Frog's rheumatism just seemed to melt away, Mrsy Muskrat did the entire washing without once feeling her lumbago, and Billy Beaver's tooth only gave one jump. The next time, after your magic medicine, the cache jumped clear out of the window."

"That's just fine," answered the Green Wizard. "But it is curious, too Dr. Snuffles. Quite curious. Do you know that magic medicine was only nice clear spring water. It was the label that did the work. When folks think they are taking magic medicine they get well lots faster. They just 'magine themselves well!"

"Well I declare!" exclaimed Dr. Snuffles in amazement. 'I am going now to tell them. They all got well so I had to take down my shingle. Now I can tack it up again sure as anything. Good-day, sir!"

Pa Whooza Dumbbell Thinks

That a Coney Island barker is a hot dog.

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN
By Ruth Agnes Abeling.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE WARD and her mother had never understood one another. Kate could not remember why they always quarreled, but they had. Kate had left home, it was twelve years ago, gone to the city and married.

Now her husband had died and she retraced her steps to the home of her youth.

She meets her father and learns her mother is dead.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

It seemed as if she must have gone Ward in the arms of the elderly man.

"My little girl—my little Katie—" her father repeated the words. one huge hand rumpling her hair while the other gripped her shoulder.

In a moment of silence Kate stood straight and tall and looked about the little place. At length the question formed on her lips.

"Mother?" she said.

"Gone—child," gently

It was evening, after the dishes were washed and the two were sitting out under the pines, when Kate Ward once more referred to her mother, and asked to be told of the 12 years during which she had neither heard from nor seen her home.

"You—miss her—much?" she faltered.

Justin Parsons removed the pipe from between his teeth. He blew a circle of smoke and watched it wind hazily toward the darkness of the pine boughs.

"No," he said easily. "I'm never quite sure that she's gone. I know there's a little heap of soil over there," his shaggy head wagged toward the cemetery, "and the minister prayed over it—and I go over sometimes and put flowers there—but I never go there to find her, Katie.

"When I want to talk to her," the pipe was between his teeth again and his eyes were penetrating the gloom. I come out here under these trees. Her voice is in the wind that comes to me through the branches and her tears are in the evening dew. I've heard her—I know. And I know she has been sorry about you—and she's wanted to come back and tell you. That's why I knew you'd come. I've been waiting for you—Monk and I."

Kate was silent.

"When you've loved someone for years and years there isn't any division in death, and so I've just been waiting, Katie, until you came — I had to, because you couldn't have understood any other way. It wouldn't have done, child, to die and have a girl somewhere in the world, hating her mother—just because neither of them understood."

"Do you think—she was sorry — about that day I came back?" softly.

"God!—yes, child. For every unkindness to someone else, we put a burden on ourselves—and she has had to struggle under that waiting for your forgiveness—she had to come back to be forgiven.

"I used to be sorry for her," his voice was reminiscent, "half of her life she spent retracing her steps, seeking forgiveness. It makes the journey twice as long, you know. Impetuous people! What they suffer!"

Monk, showing his years in the fat which combered his muscles, but still with something of the devil in his eye, put his head across the old man's knee and gazed searchingly into his face.

"Our mission's just about ended, old Boy," Justin's heavy hand lay on the dog's head.

"You don't mean—" Kate started to speak. Her father turned toward her. There was glory in his smile.

"I'm waiting for it, child. I've walked to the end of the way. I've known life and love and labor, and now I'm ready for the great adventure! I've drained life's cup to the last, and I'm ready to step into the future.

"It will be— I think—like, having walked through all of the years, suddenly going aeroplaning and seeing below the panorama of chance's achievements.

"It'll be a great adventure, Katie!" In his eyes was a radiance—strange and beautiful.

With the winds sighing through the pines and an evening dew wet on the grass—the three of them, Justin, Kate and Monk, passed into the door and sought their various resting places.

Quiet settled over the little pine-kissed, rain-washed house.

See things as you travel along, because life is a one-way street.

A pocketbook is a good gift, but it will not be needed until a few weeks after Christmas.

Carry a ship on your shoulder and you get your block knocked off.

The smallest place in the world is a boy's stomach on Christmas.

Give your girls big earrings. If you grasp one firmly in each hand she will be unable to turn her head.

Smoking a pipe doesn't cost as much as making a stove pipe smoke.

It is estimated forty million people will stumble over toys on the floor this Christmas.

If you buy a tie nobody likes you can give it to some man with whiskers.

These shortest days are the longest to a boy waiting for Santa Claus.

Some Palm Beach suits are packed away now and others are underwear.

After you think you have finished your Christmas shopping you always find you haven't.

Breakfast bacon is educated fat meat.

Price of several cold creams is up and this is the fly in the ointment.

Give your husband a new hat for Christmas and it will cap the climax.

A manicuring set is a good gift even if you don't know what all the crazy things are for.

Folding beds are nice for the home. Get the kind that only folds when you want it to fold.

The Land Of Beginning Again

I wish there were some wonderful place
Called the land of beginning again,
Where all our mistakes and all our heartaches,
And all our poor selfish grief
Could be dropped like a shabby old coat at the door,
And never put on again.

I wish we could come on it all unawares,
Like the hunter who finds a lost trail
And I wish that the one whom our blindness has done
The greatest injustice of all could be at the gates,
Like an old friend that waits
For the comrade he's gladdest to hail.

We would find all the things we intend to do
But forgot and remembered too late,
Little praises unspoken, little promises broken,
And all of the thousand and one
Little duties neglected that might have perfected
The day for one less fortunate.

Good Manners.

No part of the toilet should be made in public. Care of the nails, rouging the lips, powdering the nose ought never to receive attention except privately This rule holds good none the less in that it very frequently is disregarded.

ORDERS FOR WORK COME SLOWLY TO PARALYZED MAN

Albert Rowlett says business isn't as good as it has been. But he says it in a business-like manner; never as one pessimistic at the things life has given him

Everybody knows Albert Rowlett, although he never moves from his chair by the window unless somebody moves him. All day long he sits and crochets. And he smiles as he crochets for the busy needles that make fancy yokes and edging to please feminnie fancy also help to earn a living for his family The only times he doesn't smile is when he checks over his orders and finds them few. He does beautiful work and does it very cheaply.

Rowlett lives in a tiny two room cottage out near the foot of the mountain. He has lived there for a long time. But he wasn't always paralyzed. That happened eight years ago when slate fell on his back. Then the doctors told him he could not go about and work as he had before and he learned to crochet.

His wife has been ill for several years. Since the orders for the crocheting have lessened it has been necessary for the wife to work in the factory, the days when she is able, to eke out the family purse.

The 14-year-old son has quit school and is working also. And the little 8-year old son stays home to care for his father as he crochets He hopes that he can go back to school some time. There were times when people sent the Rowlett family coal and food but business conditions have been changed and these presents do not come now.

It is the Christmas season. You will be giving gifts to your friends. Why not add another name?

Fashionable Hat.

An exceptionally smart hat, is of brown panne velvet with a soft, rolling brim of red leather, smocked in brown silk. Its only trimming is a quill of smocked leather, lined with the velvet.

Tiered Skirt.

The three-tiered skirt is a popular model when developed in accordion pleated chiffon or georgette, and combined with a satin or embroidered blouse.

Colored Laces.

Colored laces are seen on many of the loveliest georgette crepe and chiffon frocks. There is a decided tendency toward one-tone effects, developed in combinations of material.

"Don" Sticks To the Wharves Until He Finds His Master

"DON"—OR, "BILLY"

Minto N. B. Dec 14.—In between pats and caresses, Billy got cuffs and kicks, as he squirmed in and out between the legs of longshoremen and sailors on the Canadian Pacific wharf at Quuebec.

But Billy has been repaid for all his troubles

Now his name is again Don, as the wire-haired terrior was called in his days of glory, and has a pleasant home with Major W. C Lawson here, whose mascot he had been when he commanded the 26th New Brunswick battalion overseas.

Don came back with the battalion after the war, but the landing at Quebec was so exciting that he lost his master.

Ever since, no ocean liner arrived at Quebec escaped the close scrutiny of the dog. He became so popular a figure on the wharves that the sailors and others took to him They called him Billy Some petted him. Others cuffed him.

But through it all, Billy, the tramp had one purpose—to find his master.

Billy's popularity got his picture in the paper. Major Lawson, in this city recognized him. And the reunion followed.

"Boys" Majority in Cabinet; Opportunity For Self-Made Man

Is there still an opportunity in this country as once there was for the poor boy to become great? Has the youth who works perhaps with his hands still a chance to rise without fortune by virtue of his own quality and through his own individual effort to the highest among political positions? In his new book "American Individualism" Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover answers the query thus

That our system has avoided the establishment and domination of class is significant proof in the present administration in Washington of the 12 men comprising the president's cabinet have gained their way in life dent the vice president and cabinet without economic inheritance, and 8 of them started with manual labor"

Here's how they started

President Warren G Harding was a printer Before he began setting up he toiled on a farm taught, and printed banns Then he got a job as devil in the office of the Marion Star which later he was to own and edit From that point he worked up"

Vice President Calvin Coolidge also began on a farm Next he was roustabout in a general store clerking afterward in the same establishment He paid his own way through Amherst and for his course as a law student

Secretary of Treasurer Andrew W Mellon was born the heir to millions but he is noted for the unfailing regularity with which he is always at his desk on every working day, from the start of the first hour of business to the final minute of the last one Few clerks have such a record for faithfulness

Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby's early manhood was spent in the customs service in China As a third class gunners mate on a battleship Denby saw both work and peril during the war with Spain Later as a lawyer manufacturer banker and legislator it was by energy and ability not by influence that he made a name for versatility of accomplishment such as few men in public life can lay claim to

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover was an orphan at 6 At 14 he was laboring on an Oregon farm A little later he was doing whatever work came to hand to pay his way through Stanford University as a student mining engineer Next he mined with pan, pick and shovel Today he is among the world's authorities in his profession He won his way to a reputation by years of grinding hard physical labor

Secretary of Agriculture Henry C Wallace grew up on a farm He paid by his own effort for his study at the Iowa College of Agriculture of the science of his calling He was professor of dairying for several years at the same institution Later he founded Wallaces Farmer at Des Moines combining teaching with editorship

LET IT CALL

The Arctic calls with vigor
Adventurer come forth!
Come tempt the frowning rigor
Of all the frozen North
Amid my tempests tragic
Amid my crashing floes
There is a wondrous magic
Only the Northland knows

Beneath the Borealis
Where lie the ice bound ships
I hold a frozen chalice
Against the brave mans lips
No draught for those weak hearted
Is this I hold aloft
Its icy wastes uncharted
Soon crush the will that's soft

The Northland calls—I hear it
It tingles in my ears
But fails to rouse my spirit
With either hope or fears
Let those whose souls are greater
Seek where the Pole is at
I'll hug the radiator
In my steam heated flat!

AN OLD RECIPE
TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair as it does it so naturally and evenly You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

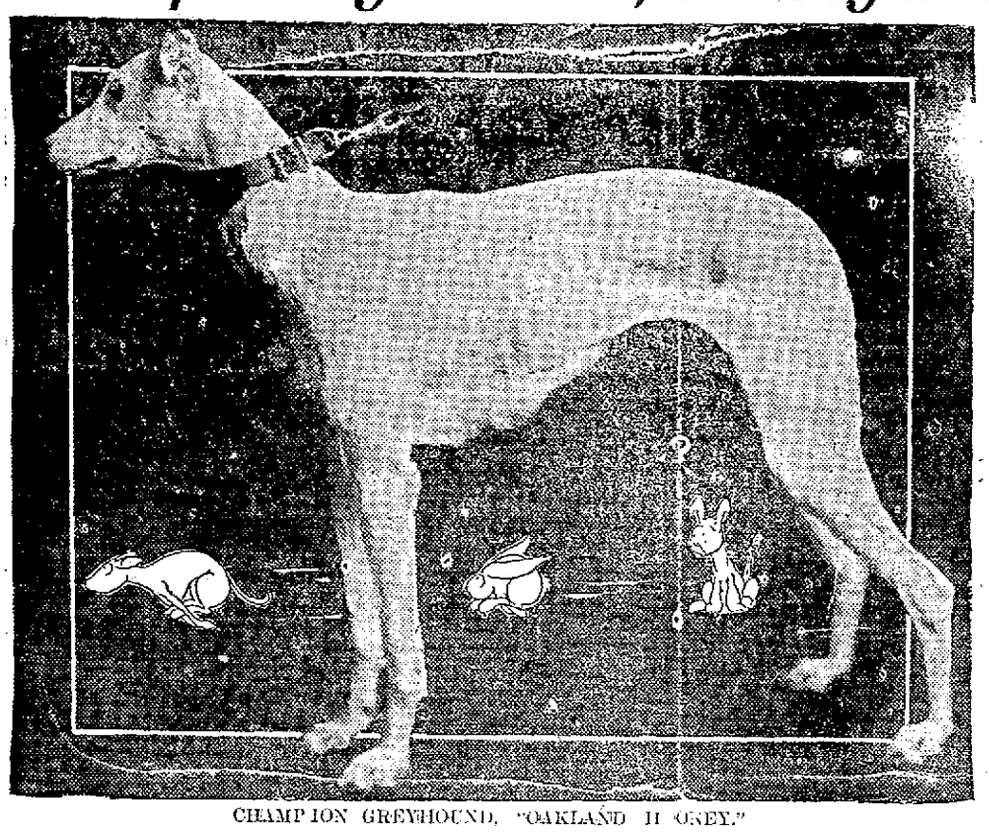
Champ Dog Sold for Cigaret



CHAMPION GREYHOUND, "OAKLAND HONEY."

By Gene Cohn

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 14.—"Oakland Honey," sleek lined and slender fleet-footed greyhound, was sold for a cigaret when she was a puppy.

Today she's worth a small tobacco factory—and more.

For she has turned out to be the fastest dog in the land, recently winner of the famous Waterloo cup.

The story of Oakland Honey is the story of blood that told; of the under dog that made grim gameness surmount physical obstacles.

Sold For a Cigaret

Although her mother, Oakland Dandy, had produced a long line of speedy steppers, Honey had seemed in puppyhood to be the least prepossessing.

One day John Goularte, street car conductor by trade, and dog lover by heart, met a friend to whom he had promised one of Dandy's offspring.

"Gimme a cigaret," said Goularte.

"Gimme a dog," said the friend.

And thus, in an exchange of unromantic commonplaces, was Honey started on her career. At an early age she showed signs of distemper. It may have been that her high strung nature was hearing the first call of the coursink track. Anyway she was sold for $50 to the George Heintz kennels. Heintz knows dogs. That's his business. He took Honey in hand, he trained her and gave her expert care. She stepped gamely our to minor victories.

Feared For Her Size

"You're game, old girl," Heintz said to her. "But you're undersized. If you only weren't so doggone small. if you had a little more weight—you'd show em all."

And Honey being an intelligent dog, knew pretty well what he meant. She weighed but 41 pounds; she was an unfortunate accident in a famed family—born with the blood but not the bulk of her mother.

Nevertheless Heintz sent her to the Waterloo cup races in Mississippi There were 128 entries, including the best that Ireland, England could send.

They all tell the story of how she "showed her heels" to Passing Mose. Western Parton, Oakland Hat, Bucksaw, Reportr—the best greyhounds in John Goularte is buying his own cigarets nowadays.

In Detroit, Ore., a cow eats all the scrap she can find, so of course she gives clean milk.

Refrigerator cars handling Christmas mail, so try to keep cool until your packages come.

Man has a new substitute for tea and coffee, but restaurants have been using one for years and years.

Gone are the days when mince pie had a kick.

A telephone stand for Christmas may help a friend stand his telephone.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like coldream.

CLAIBORNE COUNTY YOUTH HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Solomon Sandifur, 17-year-old Claiborne county youth is held at the city jail pending a preliminary hearing on the charge of forgery before Magistrate C. G. Smyth. The name of H. R. Giles is said to have been forged to a check which the boy passed in buying a suit case and several articles of clothing at the Army Salvage store this morning. Other attempts at passing spurious checks have been reported.

The check which he gave Jack Saks, employe at the Army Salvage store, was made payable to a name which Sandifur had assumed. It was for $27.50 and the name of H. R. Giles appeared as the signer. Upon presenting the check to the Citizens bank for payment this morning, Saks was informed that the instrument was forged.

The police department was immediately notified and Policemen Yeary and DeBusk made a search for the alleged forger. He was located at the News Stand on Cumberland avenue shortly afterwards and was taken into custody by the officers. At police headquarters he denied having forged the checks.

It is said that he attempted to pass a check at another business place and when the proprietor began to telephone to verify the genuineness of it, the boy fled.

He was requested to write another check at the police station and when this was done, it was said that the handwriting appeared similar to that on the questionable check.

The boy says that his home is near Harrogate in Claiborne county.

A BUSINESS MAN'S ERROR

A MESCHANT in another city thought he would improve his credit by opening new checking accounts with three banks instead of giving one bank all his business.

When this man wanted to borrow more money he found that none of these banks considered themselves under obligation to take care of him.

This man had seriously hurt his credit becausa none of these banks could know all about his business affairs when he scattered his business among several banks. The man who is in trouble often tries to deceive his bankers by having more than one bank account—but it is a plan that seldom pays.

Perfect co-operation from your banker comes when he fully unberstands your problems.
